Washington, D.C., April 20 – Five Washington-metropolitan area high school student groups are scheduled to be honored this spring for their efforts in fighting underage drinking.

In a 23rd-annual effort, the nonprofit Washington Regional Alcohol Program (WRAP) has again teamed-up with GEICO to bestow this year's GEICO Student Awards to:

- Eleanor Roosevelt High School, SADD Club, Greenbelt, Maryland;

(SADD: Students Against Destructive Decisions)

The GEICO Student Awards are annually presented by WRAP to Washington-metropolitan area high school student groups promoting alcohol and drug-free lifestyles to their peers. The popular awards are judged by a panel of area substance abuse prevention professionals including representatives from local traffic safety organizations and prevention coalitions.

Student groups are judged on their leadership, effectiveness, innovation and involvement of both the student body and community in their efforts to prevent underage drinking. Activities of the winning groups include a variety of creative initiatives including: signing "pledges" to refrain from alcohol and drug use during prom season; active use of social media to promote healthy lifestyles; organizing alcohol-free teen social events; and reenactments demonstrating the devastating effects of alcohol.

Each of this year's winning high school student groups will receive both plaques and monetary awards of $1,000 each from GEICO to continue their efforts of keeping their peers on the right track. Such 2015 honors will be presented via individual, in-school ceremonies this spring.

“According to National Highway Traffic Safety Administrative figures, over a quarter (28%) of all teen drivers involved in fatal crashes in the U.S. in 2012 had been drinking,” said Kurt Gregory Erickson, WRAP's President. “This year's student group winners represent the front line in the fight against underage drinking in Greater Washington and we commend their efforts in this far from won battle.”

Founded in 1982, the Washington Regional Alcohol Program is an award-winning public private partnership working to prevent drunk driving and underage drinking in the Washington-metropolitan area. Through public education, innovative health education programs and advocacy, WRAP is credited with keeping the metro-Washington area's alcohol-related traffic deaths consistently lower than the national average. WRAP, however, may best be known to area residents via the organization's popular free cab ride service for would-be drunk drivers, SoberRide®.
